

Output 4: CR Timing and Frequency of Reviews

Similar to CR formality (Output #1), the timing and number of CRs should align with the type, size, and complexity of the project.

For large and complex projects, this could involve conducting a CR early in the project planning phase and at key points thereafter in the project development process, as depicted in the figure below.

